Respite program seeks child care providers for Tinker Air Force Base families in Midwest City

The respite program is for families of special-needs children at Tinker Air Force Base in Midwest City.

From Staff Reports • Published: January 31, 2015

MIDWEST CITY — A respite care program for military families with special-needs children at Tinker Air Force Base is looking for caregivers.

Funded through Child Care Aware of America, the program needs five child care providers to aid families. Care needs range from all day to a few hours every week.

“This program provides Air Force families with up to 12 hours per month of respite care,” said Carrie Bullard, executive director of Rainbow Fleet, a nonprofit child care resource and referral agency that administers the program in Oklahoma.

Pay ranges from $14 per hour for limited experience to $37 per hour for a registered nurse. Providers are subject to an extensive screening process before being admitted to the program.

For more information, contact Taffy Henderson at Rainbow Fleet, (800) 438-0008 or thenderson@rainbowfleet.org.
